

A SECOND HOLY GHOST FESTIVAL

Several thousand people joined in the celebration of the Holy Ghost festival Saturday and yesterday in the society's grounds on the Punchbowl road near the Mormon church.

The grounds were prettily decorated, and in the evening illuminated by many colored lights. Booths were erected for the occasion and also many decorated arches. A feature of interest was a realistically finished warship and a well fortified fortress, and both mounted with small cannon which belched forth powder and fire just at midnight Saturday night. The warship was reported to have had slightly the best of the engagement.

The feast for the twelve poor was given on Saturday afternoon from one to two o'clock. Meats, fruits, cake and wine were served with a liberal hand. Bishop Libbert was also present and blessed the bread.

Following the banquet came the distribution of alms to the poor and the sale of meats, wine and bread which had not been given away. The festival was not ended until yesterday afternoon. The Portuguese band furnished music for the celebration.

George Lucas the Winner.

There were several hundred names suggested for Cantor Rosenwasser's new millinery store at 1141 Fort street, next to the Sisters Convent, and the committee had a very hard task before them in making the selection. Finally after much discussion the prize of a ten dollar nat was awarded to Mr. George Lucas, the clerk in the Judiciary Department, he having suggested the name of "Aloha Millinery Parlors." A number of others suggested the same name but Mr. Lucas' communication was mailed first and he takes the hat.

Railroad Men Win It

The railroad team was too much for the others in the Polo game of Saturday, when after an hour's general practice the teams were separated for play. Dillingham, Dennison, Atkinson and Prouty in two periods managed to score two goals while only one could be landed by the others. Dole, Potter, Norton, a former Riverside, Cal., player, with Ballou and Judd alternating made up the opposing team.

Marie Corelli is out on the warpath again, the object of her wrath this time being Andrew Carnegie. She tried to see the multi-millionaire in London, the other day, to protest against his alleged vandalism of demolishing two ancient houses on Henley street, Stratford-on-Avon, to erect a Carnegie free library. But the steel king declined to see the fiery little novelist, who has recently written some slighting things about him for the press. Mr. Carnegie explains his positions thus: "When I gave the money at the request of the local authorities for a free library my responsibility ceased. I have no right and do not wish to interfere with the action of the local authorities in selecting a site. I am quite sure they are as anxious as Miss Corelli to destroy no relic of Shakespeare."

Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co., New York.

Gentlemen: We thank you very kindly for your prompt attention in sending one of your men to open our safe this morning. We also wish to congratulate you upon the quality of your burglar-proof safe, as the burglar who entered our place must have worked all night and could not open the doors, and left without accomplishing their purpose. When the detectives arrived this morning to inspect the work they claimed it was done by professional cracksmen and told us that if it had been a safe of any other make the burglars would have got in by the way they worked on our safe. We thought we would write you this good news as we consider ourselves fortunate. We remain, Yours respectfully,
